Purpose

To state the University’s commitment to provide new staff members, apprentices/trainees and volunteers undertaking duties with appropriate induction to the University.

Scope

This policy applies to all new employees (including casual/sessional staff), apprentices/trainees and volunteers, and to existing staff members who are appointed to another Faculty or Portfolio.

Policy Statement

The University will ensure that all new staff members (including casual/sessional staff) and/or apprentices/trainees and volunteers are systematically introduced to their roles, co-workers and the organisation, and are provided with the information required to perform the duties of their new role.

This will be achieved by:

• welcoming new staff and familiarising them with the University, including an introduction to the University’s current Charter and values, strategic priorities, significant policies and procedures, campuses, local work locations, health and safety information, and other University activities and services that are available to them; and

• providing information to enable new staff to perform their job responsibilities and assist with workplace adjustment; and

• encouraging commitment to the Charter and Values.

New Academic staff are also required to complete the Academic Learning and Teaching Induction facilitated by the Centre for Learning Innovation and Professional Practice.

Existing staff members (including casual/sessional staff) commencing a new appointment in another Faculty or Portfolio are required to complete the Local Induction and Occupational Health and Safety Inductions. Existing staff may be required to complete Online Corporate Induction.
Apprentices and trainees working at the University (including those employed under third-party arrangements) are required to comply with all aspects of the Induction Policy and Procedure.

Volunteers are required to complete the Local and OHS inductions.
